Why do companies need to track time?

- Track actual work to compare to project budgets
- Measure costs on projects for project profitability analysis
- Invoice customers for services delivered
- Resource capacity planning
- Payroll/HR time tracking

GP OPTIMIZER LIVE

Recent survey for GP users - Analyzed their use of Dynamics GP for time tracking and identified these four main challenges:

- Data accuracy issues related to lack of easy and intuitive user interface and user experience – need to fix a lot of bad data
- Late timesheets – UI/UX issues, mobile entry options, email notifications/workflows
- Integration – not only with GP, but with other business solutions (3rd party payroll, reporting solution, Project/Resource planning tools, etc)
- Visibility of resource availability across the organization
- No easy way to track all of my time in one place

What Journyx GP customers have to say:

- "Journyx has a tight integration to GP Project Accounting and the price (is) right. With (their) guidance, we setup a solution that requires very little maintenance, allows employees to enter time daily from anywhere, and has better approval and notifications than previously existed at Iridium." Sandra Dodge, Sr. Financial Reporting & Systems Manager, Iridium Communications
- "We were able to eliminate manual Project and PTO card entry time using Journyx. Additionally, our employees appreciate the ability to access Journyx virtually anywhere and not having to email in spreadsheets." Bruce Birr, Partner and CIO, RFA Engineering
- "The integration between Dynamics GP and Journyx is great as it removes redundant data entry and streamlines the process. It works like the Business Portal timesheet application should work." Jesse Byam, Vice President
